-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

General Status

1. This is a First Action on the Merits. Claims 1-9 are pending in the case.

Specification

2. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

Page 4, line 25, "208" should be changed to -203--.

Applicant is required to review entire specification and make necessary corrections.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. § 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or

(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1, 6, 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mroczkowski et al. (US 5,588,866).

Mroczkowski et al. in figures 1-12, discloses a connector 110 for connecting a plurality of signal lines to an electronic apparatus 127 which comprises first structural unit which includes a board 11 having a plurality of contact pads 122 to be electrically connected to the plurality signal lines and substantially hollow cylindrical shaft 116 to rotate, the shaft passing through the board, extending perpendicular to the board and having a projecting part 148, 149 protruding from one side; and a second structural unit 115, 127 which includes a bottom, a plurality of spring contact sections 24 provided on the bottom and a rotatable roller 148, 149 provided on the bottom, each the spring contact sections facing, at one end, the corresponding one of the contact pads and being connectable, at the other end, to the electronic apparatus. The first structural unit is be inserted, in part, into the second structural unit, and the roller comes close to the shaft when the shaft and a part of the first structural unit are inserted into the second structural unit, and when the first structural unit inserted, in part, into the second structural unit and the shaft rotated through specific angle, the projecting part comes to a position beneath to push the board against the contact sections, thereby to bring the contact pads into contact with the contact sections, respectively. For claim 6, the housing also acts as a protective cover. For claim 8, the projecting part also acts as an alignment pin. For claim 9, bushings are shown at 171.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 2-5, and 7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's invention. Rothenberger (US 6,056,581), Mroczkowski et al. (US 5,310,352), Bates et al. (US 6,530,801), Yamamoto(US 6,257,918) and Pratt (US 6,652,292) all disclose mating connectors.

Applicant also should consider these references in response to this office action. Should issue arise concerning the rejection presented above, these references may be relied upon in a subsequent action to support the lack of novelty or obviousness of claimed subject matter to one of ordinary skill in the art.

Conclusion

8. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to T. C. Patel whose telephone number is (571) 272-2098. The examiner can normally be reached on 6:30-4:00.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Lynn Feild can be reached on (571) 271-2092. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 703-872-9306.
